Abdicating The Throne - Relinquishing the position of sovereign controller for the sake of growth and development of God's Kingdom in the earth.

The last thing a pastor would ever want to admit; was how he acted as supreme ruler over his immediate local kingdom, he might frequently refer to as, "My Church". It may stem from upbringing or just the way he manages his own household. The kind of leader I am talking about, reads 1 Timothy 3:5 and sees himself as commander in chief of the home; and takes on the approach of a military officer commanding the troops. Sitting at the helm he has the final say in all matters. His words might come across like, "Wife and kids, you don't have to think; just ask me and I will tell you." However these approaches rarely produce any kind of respect, but rather fear. At the very least, it produces a family who will not think for themselves. They will become overly dependent on others to make their decisions for them. This dominating leader likes it when his followers become totally reliant.

Great introduction to an important concept in spiritual leadership

By Nboyd

I appreciate the spirit behind the topic addressed in this book. It is a great introduction into a topic that needs more exploration among church leaders of all levels. I have seen lives destroyed by over zealous church leaders that demand loyalty, respect, and obedience falsely believing that this "pastor worship" is somehow God's will. Yet we do not find that type of example in Christ or His Disciples. Larry Schoonover hits the nail on the head by rightly identifying that many leaders are building their own kingdoms instead of God's. I recommend this book as an effective challenge to follow John the Baptists example when he said, "He must increase, but I must decrease."

Thought provoking introduction to a great need in today's church

By jchart3

This book is written as a strong, provoking introduction to a subject that requires deeper searching. The first place of that deeper searching was for me in my own heart. From there, it requires, as the author states, an "honesty and integrity", in the searching of the scriptures. This short book, when read prayerfully, with a heart for God's will, will be influential in impacting one's approach to leadership in the kingdom of God. Get it! read it prayerfully. Read it again and again coupled with the scriptures and let the essence of Christ's leadership penetrate the heart, mind and soul.

Abdicating the Throne

By Rdh

THIS IS A MUST READ! I found this book very good and easy to understand on how God wants to work in our lives. How much if we will lose our lives to Him, we will find the life He has for us. This book will start you thinking about many things that are going on in our lives, (I say ours because we should all be looking). He has been working on showing me this for awhile. His Kingdom must grow in our lives, this can only happen if our kingdom dies away.
